

WHAT'S NEW AT COLECO

HIT MOVIE TRANSLATES TO HOT GAME

War Games comes to your television screen this Christmas. Coleco recently signed a licensing agreement to manufacture, promote and distribute home video and computer game software featuring the MGM/UA film, WAR GAMES. The game will be available for use on ColecoVision this winter.

Coleco's home game will actually simulate the government computer screen seen in the movie. The player assumes the role of a general and the object of the game is to avert war.

The film spins an intriguing yarn of a teenage computer whiz who gains access to the U.S. Defense Department's early warning space computer system. Thrills abound as the teenager inadvertently sets in motion a series of events that appear to be leading to a full scale nuclear war.

DIRK THE DARING COMES TO YOUR HOME

MAGICOM, INC. has granted Coleco exclusive world rights to manufacture home video game and computer software representing Dragon's Lair™, the first completely animated video arcade game. Dragon's Lair™ is the first arcade game to combine advanced computer technology with full animation using a high resolution laser disc.

The game features Dirk the Daring and his quest to rescue Princess Daphne from an evil dragon. He follows an intricate course through a huge castle filled with wicked enemies and magical threats. Coleco's game will be available in 1984.
